Milliman named “Best Tech Vendor for Actuarial Modelling” by *Risk.net

2016 Buy-side Award recognizes Milliman’s Integrate platform for its significant capital modelling and data management advances

Seattle - December 8th, 2016 - Milliman, Inc., a premier global consulting and actuarial firm, today announced that it has been selected by Risk.net as the best tech vendor for actuarial modelling. For the second time in three years, Milliman is being recognized for its software solution Integrate™, which provides an innovative approach to support fully automated, end-to-end financial and risk modelling.

Integrate, which runs on the Microsoft Azure cloud, provides clients with best-in-class software for managing data input and complex modelling flows on the front-end, as well as robust business intelligence analytics and reporting capabilities of output with the recent addition of Microsoft Power BI Embedded. Additionally, Integrate provides a collaborative and governed process to support the model change process.

Pat Renzi, principal at Milliman, says, “We are honored to have received this award as a recognition of Milliman’s innovative approach to client work, one that focuses on collaboration between experts in technology, actuarial, and risk solutions, and that drives value for not only the organization, but the policyholders, shareholders, and employees as well. “
